

Case Study Willmotts DJB

iFacility

It's just brilliant - a vast improvement on my old security system. I've already recommended iFacility to other companies and would have no hesitation in doing so again.

Andy Stott, Managing Director

Just outside the quiet hamlet of Waterlip in Shepton Mallet is the large transport yard of Willmotts DJB, a leading distribution company.

Willmotts DJB modern fleet of vehicles, ranging from 7.5 tonne to 44 tonne lorries, delivers goods to customers across the UK and Europe.

THE CHALLENGE

Andy Stott, Managing Director, was unhappy with the company's outdated analogue system: "We wanted to move forward with the times, and knew that IP CCTV was the way to go. Viewing and storing video on our computer network made sense. iFacility visited the transport yard and understood exactly what we needed. Their solution included an alarm system and access control, offering a host of other benefits that were a major improvement on our existing security system."

THE SOLUTION

iFacility supplied IP CCTV, a sophisticated alarm system and access control for Willmotts' 16 acre transport yard. Andy explains: "We have 32 external cameras covering the entrance and exits from our 3 yards. We also have a dome camera which I can manipulate, meaning I can monitor activity across the site."

IP CCTV: "I have two screens in my office displaying clear live video from every camera. This means that I can monitor all 3 site's without having to leave my desk. I also access the CCTV on my phone when I'm away from the site. I can easily view old video when I need to, just by entering the date and time on my computer."

Alarm system: "The site now has increased security with an alarm system that's connected to the CCTV. An alert is raised if someone walks into a zoned area in our transport yard. On-site managers are alerted initially, followed, if required, by the police."

Access control: "Both external and internal CCTV covers our driver welfare facility, protecting employees and their possessions. There are five security locks giving us total confidence in the system. I know when and where people are at all times"

THE OUTCOME

Andy continues: "I'm very pleased - iFacility are always there when I need them and respond to queries quickly. I've recommended iFacility to other businesses."
